Warden urges councillors to expand health commitment

by Russ Duhaime

Haliburton County's Warden is urging his council to expand its commitment to health care to include support for a new hospital in Minden.

Several years ago county council promised to provide $266,000 for the construction of a new long-term care facility in Haliburton village. Now, with many of the issues surrounding this project settled, warden Chris Hodgson wants the county to take its commitment a step further by offering financial support to a much broader package.

The local health care planning and development committee recently agreed to push ahead with the construction of a new 30-bed long term care facility adjacent to the hospital in Haliburton village. The new facility, however, was just one element of a much larger package to address the county's health care needs. Other elements include the construction of a new hospital in Minden, and an upgrading of Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home in Minden.

Hodgson, who also sits on the planning and development committee, retold the long history of the mission to create a new long-term-care facility in the village. A consulting firm was ultimately hired to examine the needs and opportunities and came up with three alternatives, from which one was chosen.

Yet, now that a decision has been made, Hodgson

Feir-well to a good friend

by Jack Brezina
Publisher

It will be a long time before Friday afternoons come and go without someone at our office thinking of Creighton Feir.

Despite the fact that Creighton worked for The Echo he had become very much a part of our family at The Times. His death last Wednesday touched everyone deeply.

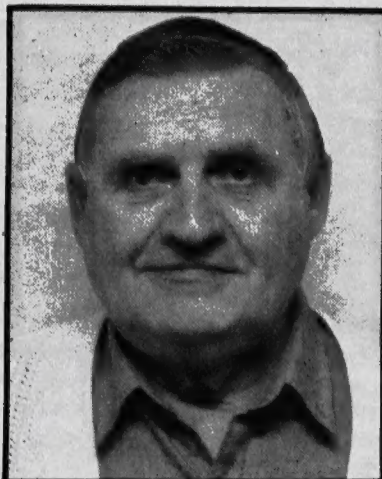

Creighton spent most of his life in the newspaper business, beginning in 1951 when his father Berkley, in partnership with Walter Noice, opened the Minden Echo. The newspaper was relocated to Haliburton Village a year later.

He stayed with The Echo through three changes in ownership. As was usually the case with community newspapers, his responsibilities included all aspects of weekly production schedule from writing to advertising sales, typesetting and delivery. His official title at The Echo was sales manger, but he was best known to readers as the author of the weekly column aptly named, Feir Play.

Creighton was a respected member of the business community, not only in his home village of Haliburton, but throughout the county. It was his weekly round of sales calls that brought him to our door late Friday afternoons.

Creighton, usually arriving after the work of putting another edition of The Times to bed had drawn all the staff to the back of the building, would silently enter the front office. He would announce his presence by rapping insisently on the sales counter demanding service like some distraught customer. The sound inevitably brought a smile to one's face and marked a welcome break in the bustle of the day's activities. It meant it was time to set aside the pressures of deadlines and sit and chat with a colleague and friend.

The visit usually marked the end of Creighton's week as well... the last advertisements picked up in Minden... yet, he always found time to share with us. While our paths crossed many times during the business week, his regular call at our office will remain our strongest memory of Creighton

As various staff members drifted in and out of the room, the talk, of course, would revolve around the frustrations and triumphs we shared in this business. The conversation was liberally sprinkled with good-natured kidding about each other's publications and the common frustrations and omnipresent deadlines.

Often our chats would lead to other areas of concern, and it was at these moments that the Creighton the community knew and loved would emerge. Rev. Harold Morgan captured it best at Friday's service when he said Creighton was a fine example of an individual who lived his life as a Christian, not just on Sunday, but every day of the week.

A humorous aside, an insightful observation, Creighton always seemed to search for the positive, the upbeat, the solution that was best

Sewers committee hopes to settle Coboconk business concerns

by Jerry Grozelle

Members of the Coboconk Sewer Project liaison committee will be meeting this week with representatives of the Ministry of Environment in an attempt to resolve a number of issues.

It is doubtful, however, that the results of that meeting will satisfy many of the Coboconk business owners who will be required to connect to the sewer system.

Rick Thompson says his blood pressure rises just talking about the cost of sewers. The owner of Thompson's Marine, on the village's main street, is among 20 businesses that are facing hefty fees to connect to the new sewer system.

The businesses concerned are united in their opposition to what they call unfair treatment of the business community. They have indicated that they are prepared to settle the matter in court if necessary.

When the councils of Bexley and Somerville decided on the method of administering the "cost sharing formula" of those who must be connected to the system, they elected to base the formula the same as the tax assessments. That means that businesses must pay one and a half times the fee charged to a residential property. The system is complicated further when the property in question has a business and a residence on the same premises. A residence will be required to come up with $4,172 (estimated), while a business will have to pay about $6,258. A combined business and residence would be required to pay both connection charges ($10,430).

"Let's take an example," Thompson said. "You can take a house with two retired people on one side; you can have a business with two people in it, which is also their residence and they run a janitorial service; and you can have next door to it a big old house with three apartments in it and three families living in it. The older couple pay $4,200, the apartment pays $4,200 and the business in the middle, with two people living in it, pays $10,500."

The group of business owners has contacted four neighbouring municipalities (Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and Haliburton) to compare their rates with the proposed rates in Coboconk. They found that all four communities charged their businesses the same connection fees as residences. The only differences in rates were with after-connection service charges. Commercial outlets that are higher users than the average residence pay more. Fenelon Falls, for example, charges its restaurants twice the residential rate. Other high-volume users, such as laundromats and motels pay on a per-unit basis. In the case of laundromats, the fee is based on the number of washers.

Thompson claims the townships allowed themselves to get too far into debt with the consulting firm and that the MOE wouldn't fund any of the accrued costs if they

for all. It was hard not to marvel at the depth of his optimism and the strength of his belief that something positive could be found if one searched long and hard enough.

It was this attitude which captivated most people who came in contact with Creighton Feir. Certainly the merchants he visited on a regular basis were well aware of the positive energy he brought, not only to his work, but to every life he touched.

Selfishly, we mourn the loss of his Friday afternoon visit, but the community's loss far exceeds that. The community has lost a man who was an institution, a beacon and inspiration. We are indeed fortunate that he passed this way and touched our lives.

Goodbye Creighton.

Local biker still riding for sight

by Andy Holloway

The Ride for Sight run may not start and end in Minden anymore, but local ride coordinator Wayne Dehaan is still working hard for the cause.

Last Friday, Dehaan received one of four Ride for Sight jackets which are currently being passed along from town to town to promote awareness of the event. Dehaan rode the jacket up to Huntsville on Saturday after Barry Wood drove the Fenelon Falls-Minden leg on Friday.

The real Ride for Sight run takes place June 18, 19 and 20 and in Ontario is centered around Fenelon Falls. Organizers hope to raise over $500,000 to help fight retinitis pigmentosa (RP), one of the leading causes of blindness. RP is a genetic disease affecting thousands of Canadians. Bikers across the country have been riding since 1979 to help raise money to combat RP. In Minden, cyclists will be leaving for their run from the Dominion Hotel on Friday at 11 a.m. and Saturday at 12 noon.

Barry Wood of Fenelon Falls shakes hands with Minden Ride For Sight coordinator Wayne Dehaan as he hands off the Ride For Sight jacket making the rounds of Ontario to promote the event. Bud Oliver and Jim Harrington hold up an event flag while Minden deputy-reeve Lewis Stevens and Snowdon reeve George Simmons looks on.

Schools to be more accesible

by Andy Holloway

Local non-profit groups will soon be able to use the three main schools in Haliburton County to hold events for free if they take advantage of a new board policy regarding community usage of schools.

The board's education committee is recommending the board adopt a policy allowing local groups to use the high school and Archie Stouffer and J.D. Hodgson elementary schools free of charge on weekdays up to 10 p.m. Groups wishing to use the school on weekends will have to pay about $20 per hour for each hour they are in the school and an additional $20 to cover the costs of the custodial staff. The $20 figure was arrived at by taking the hourly overtime wage of a custodial worker and therefore is subject to change.

"We want to provide the buildings as free as possible, in terms of dollars and cents, to the public and still maintain the security of it," said business administrator Jim Bradley.

The school's gym and other facilities will be available excepting things like computers and shop equipment. At least one custodian will be in the building at all times while groups use the school and will be on hand to help out and to provide a form of security as well said Bradley.

Individuals or groups who will be using the school for personal profit will have to pay the hourly rate no matter when they use the school. Bradley defined a profit organization as one in which personal gain is made and therefore community groups like Wee Care are not considered profit based.

Trustee Nancy Stinson said she had concerns about non-profit groups, like the Girl Guides, with whom she is affiliated, would not be able to afford the weekend rates and not be able to take advantage of the policy. However, Bradley said he did not want to be in a position where different groups could negotiate rental payments. He added that 75 to 85 per cent of the groups currently using the schools would be covered by the free time up until 10 p.m. rule.

All users will have to fill out an application form which will have to be approved by the school's principal and the board's business administrator. The rules and regulations of using the school remain the same.

Those groups who have already booked a school for their event will be reviewed to see if they should have to pay the new rates. Committee chair Len Salvatori said the rules would not apply to Archie Stouffer until the new wing is opened.

Each year the senior students at Archie Stouffer Elementary School share their musical talents with the community in an annual concert....and each year the presentations just get better. This year was no exception as the students in grades seven and eight performed for a packed auditorium Wednesday night at the school. Appearing as solo performers, duets, ensembles and bands, the youthful musicians provided an entertaining and enriching evening which spoke highly of their dedication and quality of musical training. Music teacher Glen Carter, above, assisted this year by retired teacher Walter Barnes, led the musicians through some challenging performances. Among the many students participating in the program and delighting the audience were, left, Sarah Ladurantaye who performed a song written by her aunt, Kathy Kinsman, Call of the Wild, flautist, Susan Carr, lower left, of the grade eight band, and a flank of French horn players, all members of the grade seven band.

didn't go ahead with the project. So, he contends, they had to carry on with the project or shoulder the entire cost of the original study.

Roy Haig, department head of special projects with the consulting firm Greer Galloway and Associates, said that the original environmental study report cost $160,000.

"That was basically to define what all had to be done," Haig said. "Estimated costs for the project were put in there at that time."

The total bill for consulting, including overseeing the construction of the project will be in the neighbourhood of $900,000. The actual amount is still under negotiation, but Haig said that he expects the project to come in under budget by about five per cent.

If Haig's prediction is correct it would mean the project could come in under its $5.4-million budget by $270,000. Since the MOE is funding 85 per cent of the cost, the municipality's savings would be 15 per cent of that figure or $40,500. That saving would be shared among the 160 properties involved.

"There's still a number of factors, you never really know until the job is all cleaned up and until the last I is dotted and T crossed," Haig said.

When asked if the MOE would have funded all or part of the environmental study if the townships had decided not to go ahead with the project Haig said: "Oh, yes, definitely. That's a kind of an entity on its own. It's something that has to be done to determine whether the project is even feasible or not."

A Ministry of Environment official had a different opinion, saying that their policy is usually to fund such ventures only when it is decided to go ahead with the project.

Somerville councillor Clayton Cameron points out that there was never any reason not to go ahead with the sewer project.

One thing that hasn't been mentioned by those opposed to the system is the fact that the connection fee may be paid over a period of 20 years. That applies to residential, commercial or a combination of the two. The connection fee will not have to be paid in one lump sum.

"If they don't pay up front, and that period of time is already over, they're automatically put on a 20-year payback (schedule)," Cameron said.

Cameron and the rest of the liaison committee remain convinced that the formula is the best one under the circumstances.

This week's meeting is not likely to resolve the differences between the business owners and the councils of Bexley and Somerville.

"It may just resolve the fact that everything just stays as it is," Cameron said.

says individuals are attempting to undermine the process.

The decision to locate the long-term-care facility in Haliburton village is not popular in some quarters of the county. However, Hodgson says the whole package must be considered — a package which includes a new Minden Hospital and improvements to Hyland Crest.

Critics are focusing on only half the story, said the warden. "Half a brick is not much use for building, but they're easy to throw," he said.

Hodgson asked his fellow councillors to examine the entire package over the next few months and be prepared to consider a further funding commitment in the fall.

Rec centre needed say students

by Oliver Greer

Two grade ten history classes at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School have seen the problems faced by teens in the area and decided to do something about it.

The students felt that there was a need for a public recreation centre in the area to help teens battle the boredom often experienced by youths.

Two letters were written, one to The Times and one to the Haliburton County Echo outlining the students' ideas and requesting public response.

The students contend that if there was a rec centre in the area to provide programs, equipment and activities for area students, it would definitely help cut down underage drinking and criminal activity.

One student says older people wonder about problems such as drinking, vandalism or break-ins but the answer is that a lot of it is due to simple boredom.

The two classes' teacher Paul Longo says that the class had the idea but he encouraged them to come up with the planning such as specifics and fundraising.

Longo says the classes' main concern was to try and make the public aware of the situation. "When I was a kid the Y was great. After school you could go play basketball or swim, there was always something to do", says Longo.

The rec centre would give the kids options. It would present them with something to do in the winter besides skiing, snowmobiling or ice fishing and would be great in the summer as well.

The letter to the editor was only the first step and was designed to get people's attention and make them think.

The rec centre could contain such features as a gymnasium, a pool and a community hall. Jobs would be created and programs could be run by both adults and youths.

A small membership fee could be charged or a one time user fee for non-members. Free memberships or membership discounts could be offered to those willing to help out around the centre.

The location, says the students, would have to be central so that people from all over the county could use the centre.

Students say that one of the only forms of entertainment available to them right now is the counties' movie theatres. The problems with this is that you can only go once a weekend, it can get fairly expensive and those located in Minden and Kinmount aren't even open in the winter. The students also stressed that the rec centre would not only be for adolescents in the county but an asset to people of all ages.

Student ventures

Students, whose prospects for summer employment are bleak this year, will again have the opportunity to start up their own small business thanks to a program introduced by the Minden Rotary Club.

Competition is very stiff for the limited number of summer jobs available with businesses in the county again this summer. However, Rotarians hope to improve the outlook by providing interest-free loans of up to $500 to enterprising students who are interested in venturing out on their own. Not only is this program capable of creating income for students, but it also fosters the entrepreneurial drive which forms the backbone of commerce in this county.

To qualify for a loan, students will prepare a business proposal, and submit it to the club's committee. Rotarian Bill Roszell says the proposal ensures that the students are starting out on the right foot and are serious about their venture. Proposals should detail what the expected start-up costs will be, projected revenues, where business is coming from, competition, and a repayment plan. In itself, the business proposal is a lesson in commerce, which allows students to put some of their academic training to use.

Rotarians believe there are plenty of opportunities in the community for students to establish a successful small business. Lawn care, window washing, painting, odd jobs, and on-site car washing are just a few of the ideas that have been forwarded. We know there are dozens of other possibilities for students to apply their individual skills and earn an income for the summer. The club is willing to listen to any proposals that students may have to offer.

This is the second summer that Rotary has offered these six-month loans. Last year, however, it was initiated late in the season and the response was poor. By getting it underway earlier this summer, the club is optimistic that the response will be far better. "We're really just launching it this year," says Roszell. "We're getting it to the students in plenty of time this year, and if it's a success it will be ongoing from year to year."

This project is a sterling example of the confidence our service clubs and organizations have in the community and in its youth.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information about this program can do so by writing to the Minden Rotary Club, Box 504, Minden, Ont.

People can make a difference

Editor:

Though many Canadians are still in hard economic times, Minden residents have shown they are willing to meet the cost of compassion.

In the past 18 months, several vast human tragedies — from Bosnia to Somalia — have made international headlines. Many Canadians wonder whether they can really make a difference, but they can.

One example from Bangladesh shows how Canadian donors, including those from Minden, can help save lives.

For several months, researchers have been trying to identify a bacterial disease that has affected some 63,000 people in Bangladesh, and killed 1,000. It causes severe diarrhea and the rapid loss of body fluid can cause death within a few hours if it is not treated quickly. Diarrheal epidemics occur frequently in Bangladesh, one of the poorest and most densely populated countries in the world. People acquire the deadly disease from infected drinking water. Proper hygiene and a source of clean water can protect them.

I am glad to report that four children in Bangladesh, supported by World Vision sponsors in the vicinity of Minden, are still in good health. There are among 3,573 Bangladesh children sponsored by people across Ontario. The disease bypassed these children largely because sponsorship funds helped install sanitary latrines and sink an adequate number of hand-pump wells to supply clean water. Sponsors have helped make a difference like this in thousands of communities around the world.

I wish to thank people in your community who have maintained a high standard of generosity. They have shown that their commitment can make a lasting difference in someone's life.

Board's race relations policy needed now

Editor:

Concerning the article on page 24 of May 17 issue of The Times concerning the school board's implementation of a race relations policy.

The issue of race relations in Haliburton county's school system should not be taken as light as the Superintendent of Education seems to be taking it. The statement "and while there is no hurry to finish the policy" should be looked at again.

Has the Superintendent been to Haliburton High lately and taken a closer look at the student body there. It has change since September, 1992. There are students of a different ethnic background attending both the high school and the elementary schools. I know this because I am a mother of a student who is from a different ethnic background and a Canadian. I'll bet there are other students whose backgrounds are of another race as well.

I have had the pleasure of meeting some of the Caucasian students, and they have told me of the verbal harassment that goes on at the high school. Although the majority of the student body are sensible students and do not partake in harassment of any form, there are still those few rotten apples that give the rest of the students a bad rap. If the Superintendent is going to put a multicultural/race relations policy in place then the sooner the better.

Mr. Editor, race relations are not going to get any better unless we educate ourselves and our children now. Like anything else in this world today, when you are educated, your ignorance is dissolved and you become a better person.

Whose future is it anyway?

Editor:

In response to R. Cairns letter last week: who's naive?

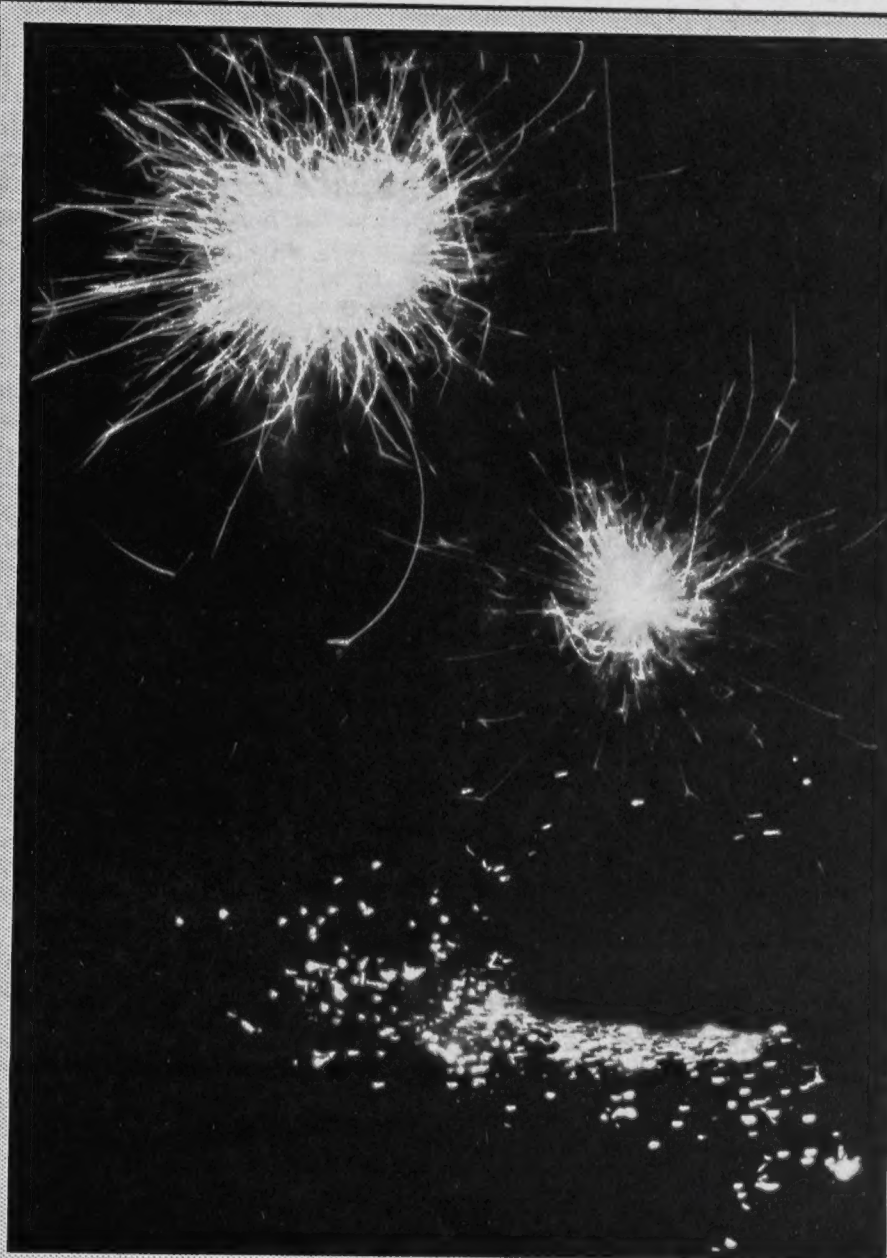

It is rather inaccurate to say that teachers serve only a fraction of the population, when in fact they serve every person within this community.

It is our high school graduates who will help pull our economy together, and dig us out of this pit of a recession. It is our teachers that will help our students to graduate. Without either one of them, can you honestly say our community, or our country, has a future?

You people seem to think that because you don't have children in school our education system is a waste of time, effort and money. You are continually condemning our teachers, and for what? Because they have been "revered" for 20 years? Or just because there is no one left to blame?

I have only one other thing to ask this community, what about us? What ever happened to the children being the future?

Selling the wackos of Waco, Texas

I know, I know...it's been a lousy day. A lousy week in fact. Your car's developed a death rattle, the kid next door just brought home a boom box radio, your income tax refund still hasn't come back and this morning the cat threw up in your shoe.

You think Life has dealt you a bum hand of cards, right? Well, cheer up. Just think of who you might have been.

Dan Quayle's PR man.

Mike Tyson's sparring partner.

Kim Campbell's astrologer.

Of course, you could have been Elizabeth Taylor.

Naw, not that Elizabeth Taylor. I daresay old Blue-Eyes-of-the-multiple-husbands has her own set of problems, but that's not the Liz Taylor I'm talking about. I mean Elizabeth A. Taylor, the blonde, bespectacled, middle-aged and matronly Director of the Conventions and Visitors Bureau for - wait for it now - here comes the hard part...

For the city of Waco.

Yes, Waco, Texas. Also known as Whacko, Texas. Site of the disastrous confrontation between a compound of religious fanatics and an assault force of authority zealots.

David Koresh and his pathetic band of loonies first traded bullets with federal agents, you may

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

recall, on February 27. That was exactly one day after Elizabeth A. Taylor arrived in Waco to take over as the new city officer in charge of marketing Waco as a pleasant, peaceful and desirable destination for tourists and conventioners.

It has not been what you marketers would call 'an easy sell'.

It should have been. Waco is - or was - a cheery, accommodating moderate-sized city of 100,000 before the Branch Davidians and the FBI squared off. It's a city that's full of parks. The Los Brazos river undulates lazily through its core. There are 14 museums to visit in Waco - everything from the Texas Ranger Museum to the Home of Dr. Pepper. "Visitors can have a free Dr. Pepper float at the soda fountain," Elizabeth A. Taylor chirps hopefully.

Alas, for the past few months the only takers have been off-duty FBI and police snipers.

It's not fair, what happened to Waco and to Elizabeth A. Taylor. Especially not fair when you consider that the famous Waco Massacre didn't even happen in Waco.

The Branch Davidian compound is outside the city limits, in an unincorporated section of McLennan County. Needless to say, reporters and TV anchormen don't let such geographical niceties get in the way of a hot story. It will be known in the history books and around the world forever as The Waco Massacre of 1993.

The intense media coverage has already turned Elizabeth A. Taylor's dream job into a nightmare. Nobody rings up to book convention hotel rooms in Waco these days. Most of the phone calls she gets are from nervous tourists about whether it's safe to visit Waco - this in spite of the fact that the standoff is over and happened miles away from downtown anyway.

Still, Elizabeth A. Taylor remains pluckily upbeat. "I think we're really trying to say, 'OK, Waco's bigger than this. Waco can come out ahead of this... We have a real opportunity to turn some lemons into lemonade and really tell people about Waco's story.'"

Well, I suppose if anybody can pull it off, it'll be a cockeyed optimist like Elizabeth A. Taylor.

Besides, we should, as Elizabeth A., herself would say, look on the bright side.

Unlike the other Liz Taylor, at least she doesn't have to worry about what her loony pal Michael Jackson is up to.

Road sign name game no longer funny

What started out as a nice human interest story has turned into a bureaucratic nightmare.

Back in November, Stanhope council received a letter from Halls Lake resident Helen Henderson stating she had concerns about two roads named Highland Road being so close to each other, one in Halls Lake and one south of Carnarvon - both intersecting Highway 35. Stanhope council recognizing a potential problem decided to do something about it.

Here was democracy in action. One person acting on behalf of her community was getting something accomplished. We all thought, "Hey, great. What a nice story to help lighten the worries of the world which press in on us every day. Somebody actually doing something constructive for a change."

Sure the story wasn't anything great in terms of significance when compared to the province's crunching debt, the debate over teacher's salaries or the decision to put the additional hospital beds in Hali-

Rantin' n' Ravin'

by Andy Holloway

burton. But it did have a small town charm to it. One person dealing directly with her council and both wanting the same thing, a name change of the Highland Road in Minden township.

Boy, were we ever wrong. The story has taken a number of twists and turns and is now revealing how petty governments really can be. If two bodies of government can't get together and agree on a simple road sign name change what hope is there for agreement on other, more important subjects. Absolutely none.

Why can't Minden council just change the name of the road and be done with it? Why in November did they put a name on the road which wasn't asked for or wanted by the people on that road? A letter they sent to Stanhope council earlier this month states they don't want to change the name because of the business interests in the area. The only business is the Highlands Motel and its owners say they couldn't care less, so who is Minden council referring to?

Minden's other argument states that places like Toronto have many similar sounding roads close together. Hmmm, the last time I checked this was not Toronto or any other large urban area. Yes, it is true Pizza Pizza can figure out where you live in a hurry, but they have got banks of computers to get it right and they also have the 911 system. Here in this county, you pick up your own pizza and the firefighters are volunteers and don't have access to such expensive computer equipment to figure out which street is where.

The whole thing is turning into something like a stupid game show hosted by a super slick nobody named Bob.

"Next on the Road Name Game we're going to ask two councils to put their heads together and change a road name. Can they do it?" asks an insanely happy Bob. "We'll find out after this important message from PAINKILLER, the only headache remedy that works in less than a second. Just put your throbbing head on the chopping block and in seconds the pain will be gone...."

Speaking of headaches, the whole point of the original story, and Helen Henderson's concern, is getting lost in the shuffle. The point is there could be confusion among emergency crews looking for a fire, break-in or injury to a person on Highland Road. Which road emergency crews head for has to be decided quickly. If, say, Stanhope firefighters decide to go south and they guess wrong, someone on Halls Lake is going to be rather upset. All for the sake of a simple name change.

If it is the cost of taking the sign down that really concerns a penny pinching Minden, then perhaps they should try to split the cost with Stanhope. Is a few pennies worth a life, or two, or even three.

Minden council is holding up a very real concern that the OPP, Stanhope firefighters and the ambulance service have.

A note to Minden council: Grow up and change the name of Highland Road while you're at it, or just take the sign down - chop, chop, get to it.

Pay freeze for teachers not quite good enough

Editor:

I saw it right away when I pulled The Times out of my mailbox: "Teachers accept pay freeze deal from Board". Holy smokes! Look at that! Fantastic ballistic. How lucky can we get? Well, at least they understand when not to rock the boat. They really understand that even the most patient cow can only put so much milk in the pail. But it isn't good enough. I met a teacher from Toronto a few months ago and got a little peak into a teacher's salary. Without getting personal or going into details, let me tell you I was impressed, to say it mildly. What a teacher nowadays can't afford isn't worth affording. This particular teacher could easily take a 25% pay cut and still be light years away from the poor house. How many kids in her class? Seven. Expensive? You better believe it.

The way I understand it, a teacher can retire at 55 and live well on his/her pension. I read in one of the local papers 3-4 weeks ago that three teachers are retiring this year here in Haliburton County. That cost, $90,000. Each teacher is given a gratuity (a tip) of $30,000. I don't understand. I guess I'm stupid. Here we have people that had very well paying jobs all their lives, they retire at an early age and are given a tip of $30,000. I can just see them laughing all the way to the bank.

I'm glad it isn't me because I'd die laughing. But I guess all that can be obtained when you have a strong ruthless union and the right thing to hold up for ransom. Mothers say, "Give them what they want." They want their children to be looked after in the daytime. Many mothers work and those not working want them out of their hair during the day so they can enjoy a quiet cup of coffee with the lady next door and keep up with the latest news.

And now we are getting Junior Kindergarten - $300,000, a mere bag of shavings. After all, the sky is the limit. We have gotten used to that. The tots will be sitting around in a circle on the floor while the guru read them a story. They will be laughing their small silly heads off, each laugh probably costing the taxpayers ten bucks. Or they'll be racing around the room in their toy limousines having a great time. Yezz, as Louis Armstrong sang it in the old days, it's a wonderful world. But better not get too used to it. It ain't going to last.

And, by the way, the teachers better be glad I'm not in charge. I'd come down on them so hard they wouldn't know what hit them. And you can take that to the bank.

Cooperative youth helps tourism industry

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Anne Swarbrick, the Minister of Culture, Tourism and Recreation.

Dear Ms. Swarbrick:

Last Saturday I visited the tourist office in the Eaton Centre to get information on small railroads in Ontario.

As soon as I walked in, a young man broke off a conversation and rushed to serve me. He was friendly, courteous, helpful and knowledgeable. He took me over to a rack of pamphlets, then, when one he wanted to comment on was not there, he excused himself and went into a back room to search for it. He obviously had a great deal of information on little railroads, so he must have done some studying.

On the way out, I noticed a visitors' book. After signing it and giving a rave comment, I glanced at what the other visitors had written. Every comment was a rave about the excellence of the service by the staff in that office.

Those young people deserve to be commended. I've visited many offices over the years. I can not recall either a private or a government office where I was treated more knowledgeably or more courteously.

Soccer teams bounced by Fenelon Falls

Tanya Easton and a Fenelon player battle for the ball in a game in which the senior Redmen came up on the wrong side of a 2-0 score.

Both Haliburton Highlands Secondary School girls soccer teams ended their seasons on the wrong note with losses to Fenelon Falls last Tuesday.

With a win the juniors could have moved into a second place tie with Fenelon, but a fluke Fenelon goal late in the game kept Haliburton in third. With about 10 minutes to go there was a flurry in front of the Haliburton net. The jam ended when a shot somehow deflected off a Haliburton player and into the net.

Haliburton pressed to score the equalizer, but could not get one by the Falcons goalkeeper. The Falcons defence did a good job of keeping the Redmen away from in front of the net during the final moments.

Coach Martha Steen could say little wrong about her team after the game considering the good effort they made and the fact the only goal of the game was a fluke. The one good sign of the loss was the continued improvement in the Redmen's play from game one to the end of the year.

The second game of the afternoon featured the seniors, who have also improved since day one, hustling for their second win of the year, but they were beaten 2-0 by Fenelon.

The loss meant the seniors finished fourth in the five team league, but coach Bob Penfold says this is one case where the record does not reflect the team's competitiveness. With the exception of the first game, the seniors came close in each match. Case in point the game against Fenelon where the effort and skills were there and with a little bit of luck the game could have turned around.

"We ran into a bit of bad luck in the last game. It was a very evenly played game and even though the score came out as 2-0 we could have had a couple of goals, but they just happened to go over the crossbar and things like that."

The seniors also played well in a 2-1 loss to Fenelon Falls on May 11 as a second half tally proved to be the difference. They also played LCVI and came out with a 2-2 tie for their first point of the year.

Run Redmen run: HHSS junior Redmen girls and Fenelon Falls players chase after a ball as it bounces towards the Fenelon end.

Haliburton track hits COSSA high

Haliburton Highlands track and field athletes had another successful outing last Thursday at the COSSA finals with six first place finishes against the top athletes in central Ontario.

At the junior level, Anna Tomlinson finished first in the triple jump and the long jump and finished fourth in the sprint hurdles, all three performances beat or tied her finishes the previous week at the Kawartha finals.

The only other girl to bring home a first place finish was Betty Verhovany in the senior long jump. Verhovany also finished fifth in the 400 metre run to qualify for the Eastern Regionals in that category as well. The regionals will be held this Friday in Ottawa.

The boys' squads also had a successful outing with several boys at each level qualifying for the regionals.

At the senior level, Chris Greenfield qualified in five events including the 400 and 200 metre runs where he finished tops. Greenfield also qualified in the 100 metres, and helped two relay teams, the 4x400 and 4x100 relay, to second and third place finishes respectively.

Craig Mann was the only other boy to crack the top spot winning the junior pole vault. In the senior pole vault Endres Weber finished third, but should be able to better his vault as he gets more practice. Weber also finished second in the javelin.

Also taking seconds were Jamie Keefer in the senior shot put, Aaron Tomlinson in the junior high jump, Andrew McKelvey in the midget shot put and Mike Bradley in the midget pole vault.

Qualifiers for this week's regional finals and their results are on page 18.

Summer soccer returns to the Highlands

Haliburton players field team again in Muskoka District Soccer League

Competitive summer soccer has made a return to the area as players from Haliburton County have once again fielded a team in the Muskoka District Soccer League after a one year hiatus.

Haliburton played its first game of the year last Sunday at Base Borden and were blanked 3-0 by the Collingwood Knights. Haliburton is one of four new teams in the league this year, the others being Parry Sound, making a return to the league after a three year absence, Barrie and Bond Head.

The league started back in 1976 with just four teams in the Muskoka area, Bracebridge, Huntsville, Parry Sound and Gravenhurst, as a recreational league says league convenor Greg Black, who also plays for Bracebridge.

The league began attracting interest from other areas in central Ontario and as a result the level of competition increased when more teams were added. However, despite the fact the league soon had teams from outside Muskoka, the name was never changed.

A team from Haliburton was added several years ago, but dropped out last year because many of the team's players were getting long in the tooth and there were few younger players to replace them. Many others could not commit for a full season and as a result the team could not consistently field 11 players.

In previous years the team was usually a winner and had a .700 winning percentage during its last five years in the league.

Manager Chris Carl, says this year the level of interest was initially higher. At the first practice there were 23 players, but that has since dropped off to about 12 players. Carl says he expected there to be more interest from players coming out of the high school, but so far that has not been the case and Carl can not explain why.

The Haliburton Highlands senior boys' soccer team had a fairly good season last year and should be feeding more players to the next level, however job pressures and other interests are perhaps taking their toll.

The Muskoka league has 12 teams which play every Sunday as well as on some Wednesday nights. Haliburton played its first home game last Sunday although results were not available at press time.

Although the team's name is Haliburton, it is playing on the field at Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden, at least until construction begins on the school.

Two Bancroft anglers caught with too many fish by CO

Two fishermen recently found out that greed does not pay in the end.

Howard and Leonard Cooney of Bancroft were fined a total of $1,000 ($200 a fish) after pleading guilty in Minden court last Tuesday to possessing more than the legal limit of lake trout, an offense under Ontario's Fishery Regulations.

The pair were observed coming off a Haliburton area lake by a conservation officer. A brief attempt to escape was made when the men tried to relaunch their boat, but they were thwarted by the officer. The men were found to have over twice their limit of freshly caught lake trout. Both men were charged and all of their fish were seized.

In making submissions to the court, the crown indicated that lake trout populations are overexploited in many lakes within the Minden area due to angling pressure and the level of harvesting they are experiencing.

The Ministry of Natural Resources is currently reviewing harvest control measures for lake trout in the Bancroft District to alleviate some of this pressure. The MNR hopes to be proposing new management strategies to maintain sustainable lake trout fisheries in the near future. Public comment on the proposed management strategies will be sought through open houses.

No horsin' around

On May 16 Scott (right) and Wyatt Nesbitt and their two teams of horses travelled to New Liskeard for the A&L Nine Mile Corner Horse Pulling Championships and came home $3,000 richer. They each won first prize in their respective divisions. Scott and his horses Dick and Jim won the heavy horse pull beating 20 other teams. Wyatt and his horses Jerry and Prince took the light horse pull in a field of 10. Both collected $1,500 for their wins. Not bad for a day's work.

Royals begin year on a roll

The season has started off well for the four Minden Royals hardball teams.

An update on the teams so far begins on May 9, three teams played at home at the Minden ball fields and each of them came out on top.

Highlands Plumbing/Carnarvon Lumber Pee wee (2) team beat Coboconk 7-6, Mattsson's Country Club Tykes beat Cameron 9-8 and the Bantams beat Bobcaygeon (2).

Two days later the Pee wee (2) and Tyke teams hit the road for the first time this season. The pee wee team tied Fenelon Falls at five while the tykes beat Cambray 20-8.

On May 12, the bantams travelled to Cameron and lost a squeaker by one run.

The Ridgewood Ford Pee wee (1) team tried to swing into action, but were rained out in an away match-up with Cambray.

Last Sunday, all four teams returned to Minden for home games. Pee wee (1) lost to Coboconk, Pee wee 2 tied Cambray at eight, the Tykes beat Coboconk 16-6 and the Bantams beat Fenelon Falls.

This being the first year for hardball in Minden and still early in the season, the teams are playing competitively and having fun.

Another update will follow in a few weeks.

Following the popularity of the 'Game of the week' shot during the hockey season, The Times will begin publishing a similar photo for Minden minor baseball starting in the May 31 edition.

There will be a different team featured each week in an effort to get as many of the teams' pictures into the newspaper.

Results and standings of the games will be printed if they are given to The Times. It is the responsibility of each team's coach to decide whether they want such coverage.

Cut sign down says motel owner

by Andy Holloway

The state of the two Highland Roads has become even muddier.

At Stanhope council on May 12, councillors were read a letter from Minden council which stated they would not consider changing the name of its Highland Road because of the business interests in the area. There is only one business on the road, that being the Highlands Motel, and they say they could care less about the sign and don't want people to think that they are the ones holding things up.

"All we wanted was a sign saying Highlands Motel Road or Motel Road. Highland Road doesn't do us any good as far as our motel anyway. We don't care at all," says Diane Mount, co-owner of the motel.

Mount says the problem began last summer when she wanted a road sign erected to highlight that a motel was there. A woman at the Ministry of Transportation office in Huntsville told her to apply to Minden council who turned down the request for either Highlands Motel Road or Motel Road. Mount says she thought that was the end of it. But in November, while she was on vacation, the township put up a sign reading Highland Road for which no one had asked.

That same month a letter from Helen Henderson stating her concerns over two same named streets in such a small area was sent to Stanhope council. She said since both roads are within Stanhope's fire coverage zone there could be some confusion created. Stanhope council responded by asking Minden to change their name which they agreed to do - to Highland Road West.

This was not good enough for Stanhope and they have asked Minden to reconsider. The two townships have batted the ball back and forth several times since then.

As for Mount, she says she "wishes they would just saw the stupid sign off and take it away."

Semestering trial runs smoothly

by Oliver Greer

Last week students and teachers at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School got a taste of what classes will be like next year when the school switches over to semesters.

A trial run was held for all of the students and teachers. The trial was planned to give the teachers a chance to see how classes must be changed to adapt to the longer time span of the periods and to allow the students to just basically get the feel of the longer classes.

Student reactions to the trial and the semester system were mixed. Student Daureena Warburton said that she thought the trial run was a good thing because it not only prepared students for next year's system but also helped prepare graduating students for college and university classes.

Charley Clark said he thought the trial itself was a good idea but that he liked the shorter classes better. He went on to add that he felt this way because the semester classes seem too long and it is hard not to let your mind wander.

HHSS principle Peter Forgrave said that the purpose of the trial run was to practice dealing with the long classes, nearly twice as long as those students and teachers are used to. As a result teachers got a chance to try different things in class and students got to see how longer periods felt.

Forgave said that some people liked the new system and some didn't but that mixed reactions were to be expected. Some teachers commented that it would be nice if the system could just be continued until the end of this school year meaning 4 classes a day alternating days. This would be a good idea said Forgrave, but it is impossible due to scheduling problems.

Forgave said the school met the purpose of the practice run with the hope that teachers and students would be better prepared for next year's changes.

"Co-operation was great. Everyone gave it a fair test and tried to make it work," said Forgrave.

New sarge enjoys community policing

by Andy Holloway

He's a young, well spoken family man who believes in the concepts of people and their community and he is also the new Staff Sergeant of the Minden OPP.

On the job since April 5th, Dennis Edlington is still getting adjusted to his new posting, his first as a Staff Sergeant, but already says he is enjoying the Highlands.

"It's a good spot," Edlington says of Minden. "You get to work hands on with the people in the area and so you get to work closely with them. It's the small town atmosphere that brings that all together."

No stranger to small towns and rural areas, Edlington brings over 20 years experience working as a policeman in small communities. As a newly recruited cadet in 1972, Edlington was posted to Waterdown, an area just north of Hamilton. Five years later he was promoted to constable and transferred to Simcoe when the Waterdown detachment closed.

At Simcoe, Edlington worked in several areas including general law enforcement and six years in the joint forces crime unit where he was a loaner policeman to other detachments like those in the Niagara and Hamilton-Wentworth regions.

"In the crime unit I was always kind of on loan to other areas. They would give me an assignment and I'd work in conjunction with those police departments."

In the midst of those years, Edlington also worked for the Brantford city police where he became more familiar with wire taps and surveillance techniques.

In 1986, Edlington was promoted to corporal, became a shift supervisor and supervised the Simcoe crime unit. He stayed in that position until six weeks ago when he was promoted to staff sergeant and his application to transfer to Minden was accepted.

The Staff Sergeant post in Minden has been occupied for the last few years by policemen near retirement age so Edlington's youth is a refreshing change. He says he chose Minden because he had heard some good things, like its school system, about the community. The type of police work is also similar to what Edlington experienced in Simcoe which is mainly general police work with some, but not extensive, traffic work.

As well, Edlington knew some people in the area because he worked with Jack Kinsman's son-in-law while in Port Dover, and when he was a cadet he worked alongside OPP officer Al Bibby.

During his years in the Simcoe detachment Edlington, who grew up in Woodstock, Ontario, lived in Port Dover, so he is well equipped to handle the style and pace of living in the Highlands. Edlington says since he has been here the "people have been more than helpful, everybody's been just great so far."

Drawing a comparison between Port Dover and Minden, Edlington says in both cases you have to get involved in the community. "In areas like these you have to go to the community, the community doesn't come to you."

Getting involved in the community was exactly what Edlington and his family did in Port Dover. Edlington belonged to the Lions Club where he was secretary for the last five years and his 16-year-old daughter and 13-year-old son were involved in various sports including hockey, figure skating and baseball. And while he expects his family will be just as involved here as they were in Port Dover, there will be a wait because his family will remain in Port Dover at least until the end of the school year, while Edlington has a house built.

At work or at home, Minden OPP's new staff sergeant Dennis Edlington enjoys the community way of living. Edlington has been on the job for the past six weeks since moving from Simcoe.

Getting involved in the community also extends to setting up more community policing systems and services says Edlington. Currently, Minden, Haliburton and Dorset have community policing and two weeks ago the OPP asked Stanhope council whether they would like to get involved as well.

"Community policing is perfect for a small community, especially in a place where you are working so closely with the people," says Edlington. "It's not the big hurdle that it is in the city. Also, for the tourists it's a natural place to go and I'd like to see that enhanced through the summer."

While he is a big promoter of community policing, there will not be any immediate changes in how the OPP conducts itself here in the Highlands. "I'm certainly not going to rush into any changes, but I'm sure there will be developments along the way so changes will come about. In fact I'm very impressed with the way the detachment has been run in the past."

Students to pay full cost of driver ed

by Andy Holloway

The following brief items were discussed at the Board of Education's management committee meeting last Tuesday.

Driver dollars

The driver education program run by the high school will no longer receive provincial grants as Ontario tries to pare its expenditures said business administrator Jim Bradley.

Students taking the popular driver education course will now be expected to pay the full amount. Last year that would have worked out to about $300 rather than the $225 they did pay. Adults taking the course have always paid the full amount as provincial grants did not include them.

However, Bradley said the course is still around half the cost of other driver education courses. Tim Casey said he was concerned it was another case where the rich get richer and the poor get poorer. Students who can not afford to pay the higher rate are the ones who really need the break in their insurance rates that the course provides, which Casey said is unfair to the parents who can not afford it. Cheryl Murdoch said if students are responsible enough to drive then they should be responsible enough to pay for the course themselves.

The committee voted to continue the program with students paying the full amount, but Bradley would do a survey to see how many adults take the course and whether an arrangement could be worked out to give students a price break.

Main course

As part of a full review of the high school's cafeteria operations a new course focussing on cooking and preparing food may be offered by the board in the future. The review is expected to take until October so there will be no changes to the cafeteria operations until at least September, 1994.

If such a course were offered students would be more equipped to compete for jobs in Haliburton and other tourism markets said Education Director Brad Saunders.

"Especially here in this county which is so dependent on tourism, I think it's a case where we can give students a chance to compete for jobs," said Saunders.

The course, if offered, would be self-supporting and students would receive credits as with any other course. Saunders said the high school could even link up with Sir Sandford Fleming College who operate a post secondary food course which would give students a chance for a college diploma.

Roof slant

The leaky roof at the high school will be coming down and a new steel roof going up if the board endorses a management committee recommendation. The board can spend up to $250,000 and still receive about 30 per cent grant from JobsOntario. The rest of the money will come out of the board's reserve fund.

The board could have decided to shingle the roof which would have been cheaper than steel, but it would not have lasted as long. Shingling was estimated to cost $180,000 compared to $312,000 for steel. Any amount the board spends over the set JobsOntario limit would have to be fully paid by the board.

The committee decided to do the roof in stages, with the most needy areas done first, so that they could take full advantage of the JobsOntario grant. Currently, the sloping parts of the roof are in poor shape while the roof over the library is fairly new and still has at least five good years left.

Business administrator Jim Bradley said that while the roof is not a major problem yet it soon will be. "The roof in Minden is a disgrace, but four or five years ago it was OK so things can happen in a hurry with these built-up roofs."

Under budget

The school board came in under budget by $15,000 last year. The figure represents about 0.1 per cent of the board's total budget of around $15 million. The secondary school panel came in under budget by $50,000, however the elementary school panel was over budget by $35,000.

The $15,000 will be used to lower tax requests of the municipality. Provincial regulations do not allow the board to budget for a surplus or a deficit.

Grade eights get the lowdown on life at Haliburton high

by Oliver Greer

Last Tuesday grade 8 students from some of the county's elementary schools got a first-hand look at what they can expect to encounter next year when they attend Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

The orientation day was organized by the students who have signed up for the new peer tutoring program offered to grade 12 and OAC students at the high school next year.

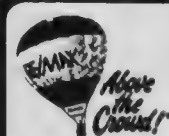

How peer tutoring works is that in every grade 9 core class next year, there will be a peer tutor who's purpose will be to assist the class teacher and provide support for the grade 9 students. The core classes are history, French, English, math and science. Laura Willis, head of the peer tutoring program, says that when the peer tutors were being selected, they were chosen not only for brains but also for their ability to interact with other.

The grade 8 orientation day started with a basketball clinic for grade 8 students from J.D. Hodgson Elementary School in Haliburton. The tournament was being run by Jenn and Chris Bradford, Chris Greenfield and Derek Wilson. With Willis' help, plans were changed to make it an orientation day and to include all of next year's peer tutors.

The original students ran their basketball clinic and the peer tutors held a scavenger hunt designed to get students familiar with all areas of the highschool and meet some of the teachers.

Willis says that all the teachers were wonderful, inviting students into their classrooms and generally making them feel welcome. The co-operation of the whole staff was very important.

Some teachers had their high school classes produce bulletin boards featuring artwork or messages. One bulletin board focused on drug and alcohol awareness.

One interesting fact is that this was the first year that students from Cardiff public school were invited to the orientation activities. This was done in order to make them feel welcome and perhaps encourage them to attend HHSS. In the past most students graduating from Cardiff Public School have attended high school in Bancroft.

Willis said that through previous communication with the grade 8 students, they had found that the students' three main fears were getting lost in the school, having trouble meeting new kids and being made fun of by the older students at the school.

The purpose of the orientation day was to cut down on these fears. Next year when these students start at HHSS they will know at least six senior students and the students they met from other public schools.

Legion Ladies march forward

The Minden Ladies Auxiliary hosted the Zone F-4 convention on Sunday, May 16 at the Minden Community Centre.

The weather was perfect for such a special day for the auxiliary. It took many hours of hard work to prepare for the convention, but Sunday morning it proved to be all worthwhile, when 165 auxiliary members registered.

Registration was followed by an hour of comradeship before it was time to form up for the parade to the cenotaph for a service. The Haliburton Pipe Band honoured the 13 auxiliaries by leading the colour parties carrying 40 flags, followed by the officers and ladies auxiliary members.

Following the service, the colour parties were piped into the community centre for the opening ceremonies.

It was an honour to have in attendance our ladies auxiliary Provincial President Phyllis Montemiglio, Zone Commander Margaret McLean, Deputy Zone Commander Dorothy Bishop, MP Bill Scott, MPP Dennis Drainville, former County Warden George Simmons, Minden Reeve Bern Berry, Zone F-4 Branch Zone Commander Sally Bonner, Branch 636 President Dave McAdam and Branch 636 Padre Reverend Brian Parker.

Thank you to Ann McAdam for her assistance on the organ and to comrade Ken Walsh for the many hours he spent training our colour party and helping us look good.

To all our comrades who were unable to attend the convention due to illness, we all hope you are back in good health and we will see you next year.

We thank all of the local businesses who donated items for our 'Goody Bags', the ladies who crawled around on their hands and knees for three hours filling the bags, the arena staff for letting us use the hall for practice, Branch 636 comrades for bartending, ticket selling and a super meal and all of the comrades in our 13 auxiliaries for making the Royal Canadian Legion a great organization to belong to.

Top: The Legion Ladies Auxiliary parade their colours down to the cenotaph last Sunday.

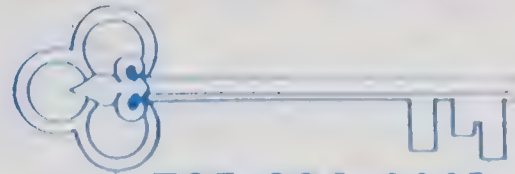

Left: The colour parties were then piped into the community centre.

Hyland Crest welcomes back summer visitors from the south

This weekend there were quite a few visitors at Hyland Crest. Some just back from the South and Mary McKelvey just home from a rather lengthy stay in Peterborough Hospital. It's nice to see her back.

Sunday being Mother's Day there was a lot of coming and going. Stella Burch came and read to us in the afternoon. Rev. John Burgess conducted the Mother's Day service and Louise Leonard played the organ. Thank you both.

Monday May 10 resident council was held with a good number present. Ms. Jones explained the position re. the Haliburton Hospital and the situation at Hyland Crest. It was a successful meeting.

Tuesday morning Pastor Fast held chapel services which we appreciate very much. We had crafts in the afternoon and Corinne found enough players for three tables of euchre in the evening. Thank you Corinne.

Wednesday at lunch, the social luncheon group of the United Church (from Hyland Crest) under Donna Quantz's leadership, were invited to the beautiful log home of Lloyd and Evelyn Coleman. Words cannot show the hospitality and the gorgeous luncheon we received there with the help of Donna Quantz and Mary Cox. We all thoroughly enjoyed our lunch and all that went with it. Of course we wouldn't have been there except for Doris driving the bus and the help of our host and hostess getting out and into the bus. We have many kindnesses to thank Lloyd and Evelyn for and we sincerely do.

Wednesday night Earl Cooper and Kathleen Owens, like they so often do, came and played music for us, violin and piano, mandolin and piano, accordion and singing. Thank you Kathleen and Earl.

Once again, the Hyland Crest Auxiliary stepped into the breach and provided and served us a delicious Thursday tea party. They were Muriel Harrington,

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

Molly McCarthy, Ann Cook, Doris Hart and Fern Donnelly. After the tea we had a short sing-a-long with Doris playing the piano. Thanks all you ladies, we really enjoyed it.

Friday being Happy Hour, the entertainment was by Lloyd Madill, Don White, Carman Peters, Charlie Hadley and Bill Payne with Don Holden, Ellen Holden, Mary Guillimin, Dottie Muirhead and Dorothy Milne to attend the residents' and friends' needs. Hearty thank you all.

Condolences are sent to the family and friends of Gladys Kirkpatrick who passed away Saturday, May 15 at Hyland Crest.

The "Grandfathers" entertained us Friday evening for a happy evening. We sincerely appreciate and thank them.

Gorbachev new green leader

Political leaders who commit themselves to public service once out of office are as rare as whooping cranes. So it is gratifying to find one. Mikhail Gorbachev became president of the newly created International Green Cross (IGC), saying, "I regard it as a privilege to offer my experience and knowledge."

In 1990 at a Global Forum of Spiritual and Parliamentary Leaders on Human Survival in Moscow, Gorbachev had suggested the need for an environmental counterpart to the Red Cross to heal the Earth. The idea grew and last week the IGC was officially born in Kyoto, Japan. The IGC Board includes explorer Thor Heyerdahl, former Japanese Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu, former UN Secretary General Perez de Cuellar and scientist Carl Sagan.

Gorbachev's speech at the opening ceremony for the Global Forum was electrifying in its passion, commitment and insight: "The current global landscape is the landscape of a profound crisis that can end either in the death of mankind or in the beginning of a new civilization...technology and the constant improvement of technologies, has not only failed to mitigate the conflict between man and nature, but it has also aggravated the conflict. For the first time, we see signs of danger to the very stability of the biosphere."

In Gorbachev's opinion, there is a twin assault: "With the current reckless standards of consumption, and with the current technologies, the biosphere may not be able to stand this kind of pressure." Underlying the destructive path is "a crisis of the native belief in the omnipotence of humankind. The belief that there is no limit to humankind's possibilities and abilities."

To Gorbachev, "The problem of saving the planet...has absolute priority among all other problems facing humankind today." He correctly identified the need for a profound shift in the way we perceive our place in the natural world: "We have to understand that humanity like any other species, is just one of the components of the biosphere, and cannot live without the biosphere. As for the biosphere itself, it existed billions of years without humankind, and it will continue to exist, even if the human species no longer lives in the biosphere. The time has come to understand that humankind should live within the laws of the biosphere."

The global eco-crisis results from the belief that we have somehow escaped the biophysical constraints that limit all other species. So we try to make the environment fit into our economic, political and social constructs.

"The idea of development and progress very often conflicts with the idea of preserving our planet and preserving the human race. The idea of co-operation and collaboration is very often in conflict with the instinct of competition. Too often, modern nations, satisfying their selfish, narrow aims, undermine the global conditions of life on earth. And by that, they

by David Suzuki

are advancing their own destruction," said Gorbachev.

He called for "an ecology of spirit and an ecology of thought...Ecological implication assumes, above all, respect and love for all living things...The meaning of life, and the unique nature of life is in its diversity."

By that he meant not just species and ecosystem diversity, but the rich diversity of people and cultures within our own species.

And then he suggested a kind of ecological Golden Rule: "Humankind and nature are an organic whole...humankind must not wish for nature what it has not wished for itself...Humankind has no right to live at the expense of nature. By pillaging nature, humankind is stealing from itself. We must draw a line that humankind must not cross under any circumstances...Today it is not enough to understand that we are a part of nature, that reasonable coexistence with nature is our future...there are certain tasks that humans cannot solve, that humans cannot accomplish in principle."

Gorbachev spoke about the need to change motivation from an emphasis on technological progress to spiritual progress, improving the quality of human life while combatting "consumerist ideology."

He has set some formidable goals for IGC: "To define the set of values and initiatives upon which the philosophy of survival will be based...we must explain to humankind the environmental situation that exists in the world, and that there should be some forbidden zones for human activity...The main priority is to transfer the environmental activity to the international level."

He ended with the questions that must be faced: "We are in a race against time. What is going to happen first? A critical increase in global dangers and the collapse of human history? Or the critical growth of hope?"

It would be easy to retreat to cynicism (these are the same political and business leaders who got us into this mess) or skepticism (the proposed plans are grand but vague). But we need HOPE not cynicism or skepticism and I, for one, have high hopes for this man.

David Suzuki is an geneticist, television and radio host and a speaker on environmental affairs.

Minden Women's Institute to hold two summer bake sales submitted by Jeanne Sears, P.R.O.

Vice President Jean Cox convened the May 19 meeting of Minden Women's Institute at the Library Cultural Centre. She welcomed us all and 13 members answered the roll call by showing something memorable of their ancestors' with many great items shown.

The regular reports were given. A letter requesting volunteers by the Gallery for setting up for the Art Festival July 3 and 4 was read and several members offered such as Mary Cox for Friday night and Mary Wilson for Sunday afternoon.

No one else was able to attend the Bury's Green Branch 40th anniversary on May 20. Drivers Jean Cox and Mary Cox made a donation of their mileage to District Annual at Burnt River Centre.

Irene Moore gave a report of sending 16 cards since last meeting and collection for Card Fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken and a card sent round for Jean Lacey who was just home from the hospital.

Many thanks to Cec Rowe for his generous donation of a jar of pennies.

Most members had turned in their aprons and others should bring these to next meeting. The planning meeting for programs for 1993-94 will be June 2 at 10 a.m. at Jean Cox's home for executive and convenors. It was decided to have two bake sales this summer on Main Street Friday, July 2 and August 6, both at 10 a.m.

The Tweedsmuir Tea will be planned for September. We are also having a food basket draw with members bringing goods to next meeting with draw to be made in late summer.

We also will plan Fair exhibits and perhaps a bus trip at the next meeting. Joyce Hewitt also will carry on with her current events for this year with thanks to her.

We are inviting district President Eleanor Crane to pot luck at the United Church hall on Wednesday, June 16 at 12 noon and bring own dishes.

After the adjournment, a plant sale went on with auctioneer Irene and netted us some funds. The lunch committee served a delicious lunch and cup of tea and all had a chat with others.

CARDS OF THANKS

Linda, John and Bev Coneybeare and their families wish to thank all of those who helped us as we kept our loving vigil with our mother

Rosamond Coneybeare

We are especially grateful to our aunt Eileen Prupp who was unfailingly there for us; the Reverend Christopher Greaves for his caring words; cousin Christine Pritchard and good friends Gord and Rita Ogg; the nursing staff of the Haliburton Hospital, Dr. Moga and Dr. Good for their expert, continual care; the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home; the members of the Haliburton A.C.W. who provided the reception tea following our mother's funeral and Bill Gliddon and his choir for their glorious music. All of this plus your cards, donations and gifts of food and flowers, your concerned calls and visits to Rose in the hospital created a circle of support that held us up in our time of such loss and sorrow. Thank you.

IN MEMORIAM

YEARWOOD: Luella. In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away May 25, 1991. No one knows the grief we share When a family meets and you're not there

Life goes on we know that's true
It's not the same since we lost you.
You left us quietly, your thoughts unknown.
You left us memories we are proud to own.
So treasure her Lord in your garden of rest
For while on earth she was one of the best.
Sadly missed, love Sylvia, Bob, Judy & Paula.

HARPER: William. In loving memory of a dear husband who passed away May 27, 1991. He is gone, but not forgotten
And, as down another year
In my lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Always remembered by his wife Betty.

McKELVEY: In loving memory of my husband Irvin who passed away May 28, 1992. Gone are the days we used to share
But in my heart you are always there.
The gates of memory will never close
I miss you more than anyone knows.
Lovingly remembered always by wife Jean.

McKELVEY, Irvin. In loving memory of a dear father who passed away May 28, 1992. What I'd give if I could say
Hello Dad in the same old way
To hear your voice, see your smile
To sit with you and chat a while
So you who have a father
Cherish him with care
For you'll never know the heartache
Till you see his vacant chair.
Sadly missed and never forgotten, Betty and Alfred.

IN MEMORIAM

McKELVEY: In loving memory of my dear brothers who passed away. Buster, Feb. 1, 1975, Douglas, Oct. 3, 1987 and Irvin, May 28, 1992. Their faint last wish would like to have heard
And breathed in their ears one last parting word
Only who have lost are able to tell
The pain of the heart in not saying farewell.
Sadly missed and always remembered, Audrey.

ROWDEN: In loving memory of Junior, my dear son, who left us suddenly December 26, 1988. Today the sun shines down
On a grave not far from here,
Where someone sleeps we could not save,
And always loved so dear.
Our thoughts are always with you
Your place no one can fill
In life we loved you dearly
In death, we love you still.
If roses grow in Heaven Lord
Just pick a bunch from us.
And gently lay them in his arms
And tell him they are from us.
Missing you on your birthday, May 23rd, always loved and sadly missed, Mom.

ROWDEN: In loving memory of our dear brother, Junior, lost to us December 26, 1988. Remembering you on your birthday, May 23rd.
Fond are the ties that are broken,
Dear is the one that is gone,
In memory we shall keep him
As long as the years roll on.
As we loved him, so we miss him,
In our memory he is dear,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
"In silence we remember".
Deeply missed and always loved by his brothers, sisters and families.
